I learned that making it on a phone is difficult for lots of people to work on it because the screen is small. It would have been better had we done it on a tablet. The app that we were using is not on the computer which is why we were using a phone. We had a lot of ideas for the animation when we did the story boards. With a time limit of forty seconds, we could not use all of the ideas. So when we did it we tried to pick the best but also comical ideas. When we did it we had to keep in mind of how long the introduction and credits would take. We just had to make sure that we used copy right free music and no last names. When you make ANY animation I learned that you should be aware of ALL requirements we made it then had to go back and change it a few times which was not easy, and all because we kept leaving out requirements such as no last names.
